- ☉ If you have been forced or coerced into sexual activity against your will, help is available.
- ☉ If you have a friend who has experienced sexual assault, or is in a controlling or abusive relationship, and you want to know how to help... we are here.
- ☉ If you aren't sure you understand Harvard's policy, or if you want to know more about why rape happens, we can provide information.

Information, support, and resources-- confidentially.

The Office of Sexual Assault Prevention and Response was established in 2003 to assist survivors of sexual violence, their friends, and partners, and to educate the Harvard community about sexual assault, its prevention, and its impact.

All Harvard students are welcome to use the resources of the Office. You can access these services by phone or by coming to the Office. The Office provides confidential, 24 hour information and assistance for students who have experienced sexual assault and related forms of interpersonal violence including sexual harassment and relationship abuse.

Reaching out for help is the first step to healing. We are here for you.
(617) 495-9100

We can assist confidentially with explaining your options, including options for medical and mental health care, reporting, and adjudication. We provide support to friends and partners of sexual violence survivors as well. Students may also request an educational program by contacting the Office at 495-9100.
